

Chevening's... 'Reflections of Hope and Courage'

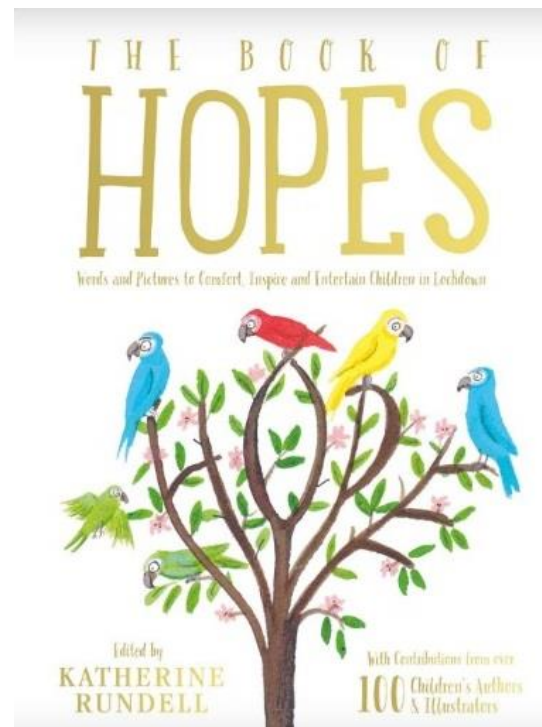

What's it all about?

Inspired by the Literacy Trust "Book of Hopes" released in April, we would like to produce a book filled with contributions from members of our whole school community: children, staff, governors, parents and any other family members who would like to be involved.

Our intention is that the book is a collection of writing and pictures which captures the current atmosphere and feelings of our community. You might like to think about the themes of hope and courage or even one of our other school values.

We want the book to speak from the heart, so the brief is quite open. Here are some ideas for contributions...

- Memories
- Pictures
- Photos
- Poems
- Songs
- Stories
- Accounts
- Prayers
- Personal reflections

How to get involved:

Please send any contributions to the book via email to cedwards@chevening.kent.sch.uk either as an image or Microsoft Word file.

Why get involved?

The Covid 19 pandemic will be spoken about throughout history. Despite being an overwhelmingly difficult period, we feel it is important to mark this in our own, unique Chevening way.

Through this book we hope to recognise the difficulties that members of our community have endured as well as the positive things that have occurred as a result of this time: the opportunities to come together in new ways and to reflect on what matters to us; including witnessing the courage of our frontline workers and inspirational individuals such as Captain (now Colonel) Tom!

In a time when we cannot physically be together, this is one small way that we can come together as our Chevening family.
